A Tonic

HORSFORD'S ACID PHOSPHATE.

A most excellent and agreeable tonic and appetizer. It nourishes and invigorates the tired brain and body, imparts renewed energy and vitality and enlivens the functions.

Dr. Ephraim Bateman, CEDARVILLE, N. J., says: "I have used it for several years, not only in my practice, but in my own individual case, and consider it under all circumstances one of the best nerve tonics that we possess. For mental exhaustion or overwork it gives renewed strength and vigor to the entire system."

NEXT week our base ball team starts on its Eastern trip, and we all await with the greatest interest the result of the games. Since the Cornell game our hopes of success have risen fifty per cent, and we believe that we shall be able to make a creditable showing in every game and in the majority of them to win. Our nine, so far has been attended with phenomenal success, and if hard work and practice is kept up greater glory surely awaits us. We believe that Cornell is able to put up almost as good a game as Yale or Harvard, and since we can put up a better game than Cornell, — you may draw your own conclusions. Our best wishes to the team for their success!

A N active, wide-awake interest in the progress of Newberry Hall has taken hold of the churches of this city and throughout the state. Each church of every denomination, having the interests of the students' Christian welfare at heart, is doing something for a contribution to the S. C. A. building fund. We are glad that the friends of the S. C. A. are keeping in every way possible this worthy cause, and we trust that this feeling that here in this great seat of learning, of which Michigan is so proud, there may be done a little faithful home missionary work. Every resident of Michigan, who expects to send a son or daughter to the university, should have an increased interest in the welfare of the organization that extends its noble Christian influence, not only throughout the university, but throughout the state and the whole country. It is to be sincerely hoped that a sufficient amount may be raised to complete the handsome S. C. A. building in a very short time, and to leave it free from one cent of debt. Let everyone, undergraduate and alumnus, help in some way the efforts that are being put forth in the interests of Newberry Hall.

THE Northwestern and the Ægis of the University of Wisconsin, do not take their defeat in the recent oratorical contest very gracefully. In fact the college press of these two universities is in a very bad humor over the result and raves frantically at the decision of the judges. Some remarks are made which are, to say the least, very unjust, and which should be apologized for, if there are any instincts of gentlemanliness left among the boards of the respective college editors. Oberlin felt keenly her disappointment at being placed at the foot of the list, but she praises the fine effort of her excellent orator and seems determined to stand at the head next year. She does not question for a moment the veracity of any one of the judges. We trust that after a calm deliberation the Northwestern and the Ægis may feel better over the defeat of their oratorical contestants, and, let us hope, somewhat ashamed of their violent tirades against the decision of the just and honorable judges.

THERE is a universal expression of regret among the University faculty and the students, that the Chicago University is to take from us Mr. Tufts, who for the past two years has so ably filled the position of instructor in philosophy. His work here has been thorough and extremely interesting to all who have had the pleasure of taking his courses. He has put many of the usually dry philosophical studies in a new light and has aroused a real, live interest in them. His practical ways of teaching his subjects have been the delight of all, for by their means the student has been able at the very first to grasp clearly the fundamental principles and apply them throughout the minor details of the subject. The student of Kant and his philosophy have been able, under Mr. Tuft's instructions, to see in an unusually clear light some of the hidden and intricate problems of the great philosophical genius. The university truly sustains a severe loss in the departure of Mr. Tufts, and it will be hard to fill his place. However, we congratulate the Chicago University upon its good fortune in securing so able a man, and we wish Mr. Tuft's success in his new field of work.

THE singing of our Glee and Banjo Clubs at University Hall last evening was thoroughly enjoyed by the audience present. Although we have been unusually favored this year with excellent college music from our own clubs and also from those of Amherst and Cornell, yet we never tire of it, and are especially glad of every opportunity to hear our own boys. Last night the excellent and varied programme confirmed more strongly than ever our conviction that we have the best college glee club in the country, and we feel that the press reports of our Western cities in regard to the concerts of the spring tour were not in the least exaggerated, but that the clubs merit all the praise they received. It is to be regretted that the clubs will lose some of their best men next year; but it is as one of the Des Moines papers said: "The personnel of future clubs may be changed, but the spirit which makes a college performance is not confined to one group of students, but like apostolic succession is handed down from one generation to another." We hope that as good men may be found to fill as well vacant places, as those who have filled them this year. The concerts of this season at home and abroad have certainly been in the highest degree successful. We extend congratulations to the members of the clubs and to their excellent management.

THE CHRONICLE-ARGONAUT hereby accepts the challenge of the U. of M. Daily to play a game of base ball at such time and place as may be agreed upon by the respective managing editors.

NEXT Saturday delegates from the principal college papers of the West will meet in the parlors of the Palmer House, Chicago, for the purpose of forming a Western Inter-collegiate Press Association. The advantages to be gained from such an organization have already been commented upon in these columns, and it is to be hoped that they may be fully realized. The U. of M. Daily has shown great enterprise in organizing and carrying out the plans for this meeting. Delegates will be sent from here by the CHRONICLE-ARGONAUT, the Inlander, and the U. of M. Daily.

THE game with Cornell at Detroit last Saturday was one of the best and most exciting games ever witnessed by a delegation from the U. of M. It was an evenly contested game from the very start. The suspense of the audience was kept up till the very last inning, till the grand climax of U. of M. 8, and Cornell 6. It did not take the great crowd of Michigan men long to realize that victory was theirs and a wilder, happier set of fellows than we were after the game Detroit had never seen before. The streets were paraded and soon the whole city knew that Michigan had won. The playing of both nines was excellent. Cornell has a very strong team, but much to her disappointment she met her first defeat when she faced the crack nine of the "wilds of Michigan." The features of the game were the double plays made by Codd, Kelly, and Rich, the heavy batting of Wilkinson and Codd, and the fine work of Cornell's in-field. Our men have been much encouraged by the result of the game, and their hopes of success on the Eastern trip are high. Much praise is due to Mr. Conway for his thorough coaching of the team, for his whole interest is right with the men and their work. We congratulate the nine and its management upon their brilliant success, and our best wishes go with them East for a glorious list of victories.

The Art Loan.

Newberry Hall is now the scene of unusual activity. The ladies of Ann Arbor have prepared an art loan exhibition to be held in Newberry Hall from May 16th to May 30th, in the interest of the Christian Association. The exhibition is a fine one. Where so many attractions exist it is impossible to make distinctions, but one room that will claim the admiration of every visitor is the floral room. This is the first room at the right of the main entrance, and is beautifully decorated with soft draperies of apple green, festooned with silver cords finished with silver tassels. Palms, ferns, potted plants, and a profusion of cut flowers transform this into a veritable bower of beauty, which is presided over by flower costumed young ladies.

Communicating with the floral room is the German room, containing a fine collection of German wood carvings and many other art products of that nation. The near neighbor of the German room is the Colonial room. This room is designed to be a very close counterpart of the interiors of "ye good old colony times." Furniture nearly two hundred years old is arranged to represent two "old colony" rooms. In the rear of the building and communicating with the colonial room on one side, and the bric-a-brac room upon the other is the art gallery. The walls of this gallery are hung with chocolate-brown draperies. Day light is excluded, and light for picture-viewing is furnished by electricity. This gallery contains a fine collection of oil and water-color paintings, including about twenty-five-thousand dollars worth of oil paintings from the McMillan collection. In this gallery is the "Flower Girl," painted by Meyer Von Bremen and "Roasting Apples" by T. D. Millet, the artist who painted the celebrated "Aenone," now owned by the Detroit Museum.

Leaving the art gallery the visitor may directly enter the bric-a-brac room. Here a choice collection of bric-a-brac, old jewels, etc., await the admiration of the visitor, and several well filled show cases invite inspection. Mrs. J. B. Angell is chairman of the bric-a-brac committee.

Aside from unique Japanese and Chinese draperies, costumes, etc., the oriental room contains some rare oriental wares. Fine old satsuma, cloi-senne and Moradabad wares are found here, together with a choice bit of Benaret brass. Ladies in oriental costume preside here.

Much of the success which the art loan expects to achieve is due to the energy and executive ability of Mrs. W. S. Perry, who is the president of the art loan committee.

The Redemption.

The echoes of the Boston Symphony Concert have hardly died away before we must begin to look forward to another musical event of importance, viz., the coming concert of the Choral Union, at which Gounod's masterpiece will be given. This work, to quote the words of the author, is a lyrical setting forth of the three great facts on which depends the existence of the Christian Church. These facts are: 1. The Passion and the Death of the Saviour. 2. His glorious life on earth from His Resurrection to His Ascension. 3. The spread of Christianity in the world through the mission of the Apostles. These three parts of the present trilogy are preceded by a Prologue on the Creation, the Fall of our first parents and the promise of a Redeemer."

Regarding the circumstances of its composition he says: "It was during the autumn of the year 1867 that I first thought of composing a musical work on the Redemption. I wrote the words at Rome, where I passed two months of the winter—1867-8, with my friend Hebert, the celebrated painter, at that time director of the Academy of France. Of the music I then composed only two fragments: 1. The march to Calvary in its entirety; 2. The opening of the first division of the third part, the Pentecost. Twelve years afterwards I finished this work, which had so long been interrupted, with a view to its being performed at the Festival at Birmingham in 1882."

Since its first performance in England it has been one of the most popular Choral works and has been given repeatedly in the larger cities of Europe and America. Owing to the injustices of our copyright laws the right of performance with orchestra has been rigidly controlled by the publishers. So that in the majority of instances the work has been given in this country with piano and organ accompaniment alone. It requires the full resources of the orchestra, including harp, four trumpets, etc. So that the expense deters many societies from giving it with orchestral accompaniment. The Choral Union will give it with the utmost fidelity to the composer's intentions, and a large and finely trained orchestra will render the score. Mrs. Jennie Patrick Walker has made a series of most magnificent successes in the soprano parts, and is today without a rival in this country as an interpreter of Gounod's music. Possessing a full soprano voice of unusual range, with the warmth of feeling so essential to the dramatic singer. Her singing, we are confident, will never be forgotten by our people. Mr. Jules Jordan's sympathetic voice, and refined style fit him for his part of narrator. In fact he was one of the first to sing it in this country, and created the part in Boston. The bass solos are in the hands of Mr. Arthur Beresford, of Chicago, a singer who has been making a wonderful record for himself this last year. Mrs. Stoddard, the contralto, has a rich, deep, sympathetic voice and will sing her solos in finished style. In short the Choral Union desires to make its last concert a brilliant success, and will do everything in its power to make this concert the best the society has ever given. A more extended analysis of the work will appear in the columns of the CHRONICLE-ARGONAUT next week.

The Cornell Game.

The base ball game Saturday between Cornell and U. of M. resulted, (as every body knows) in a victory for Michigan by a score of 8 to 6. The game was hotly contested from beginning to end and the playing remarkably even and well balanced. Codd and Walsh were the battery for Michigan; Priest and Field, for Cornell. Among the features worthy of permanent record might be mentioned Codd's, Wilkinson's and Taylor's three baggers, Miller's home run, the four double plays credited to Michigan, and the fact that Codd and Priest each struck out ten men. To Priest's overthrows to bases in his attempts to catch runners, may be charged the loss of the game to Cornell, since one overthrow to third in the second inning scored three more for Michigan. Cornell got ten base hits to Michigan seven, but those of the latter were more opportune and the most was made of them. Pearson and Taylor are charged by the opposing nine with interference of base runners, the former by tripping.

The game was attended by twelve hundred Ann Arbor students among whom were several scores of Co-eds. The enthusiasm was unbounded—indescribable. The excursion train returned at eleven p. m., after the theatres. The students divided between the Detroit opera house where the U. of M. Glee and Banjo Clubs entertained them, and the other theatres.

Following is a complete score of the great game:

The entrance fee for each event is fifty cents, entrances close May 20. All communications should be addressed to P. A. Gowgill, secretary of the association.

The Glee Club Concert.

After a very successful tour the Glee Club has returned to give their annual concert in University Hall. The audience though not so large as it should have been, was very enthusiastic and received with much applause the excellent program given.

The Banjo Club played a number of pleasing sections, and played them well. The 'cello solo of Mr. Worden, with guitar-quartette accompaniment, deserves special commendation.

The solo by Mr. Spalding was finely sung and received a much deserved encore. Mr. Spalding has a splendid voice and sings with much expression.

The solos by Messrs. Walter and Alexander were well rendered and received with encores.

With this concert the Glee Club closes its work for the year, which has been of universal excellence and financial success.

The Delta Gamma Convention.

The seventh national convention of the Delta Gamma Sorority met this week with Xi chapter of Michigan University. The ladies of Ann Arbor kindly assisted in every way the local chapter in entertaining the delegates. Business sessions were held Thursday and Friday in the parlors of the Presbyterian church. Wednesday evening the young ladies were given an informal reception at the home of Mrs. Dr. Nancrede. Thursday evening a reception was given at Nichols' Hall at which were present a large number of the students, members of the faculty and other friends. Friday evening the exercises of the convention were closed with a banquet. Mrs. M. W. Harrington presided as toast-master. The following toasts were repounded to:

"The Barbarous State,".....Miss Osborne
 "The State".....Miss Moore
 "Transitional Period".....Miss Schwab
 "The Real State".....Miss Mills
 "The Ideal State".....Miss Bushnell

Beautiful floral tributes were received from the local chapters of Phi Delta Theta and Alpha Delta Pi, Sorosis, Kappa Kappa Gamma, Gamma Pi Beta, Phi Beta Phi. The delegates were delighted with their visit to Ann Arbor and with the kind attentions they have received. The next convention will be held at Akron, Ohio, in 1893.

The University Minstrels.

The University Minstrels make their first, last and only appearance in Ann Arbor Thursday next at the Opera House. Let everybody turn out to hear the funniest entertainment of the year. The boys have been working long and hard to make the minstrels a success. The base ball team is in need of funds to pay their expenses on the eastern trip and all the proceeds of the minstrel show will go to that end. Don't, for any reason, miss this entertainment next Thursday evening.

In Part I of the program is the Rush Line: "Kid afraid of Tutes," by Ted Smith; "I've been Sold," by Sam Park. In Part II Sam Park appears again. Banjo Quartette; Knockabout Team; Mandolin Serenade, etc. Part III consists of a burlesque entitled "A Stormy Night." Good players are being made in the training for field day sports under the direction of Mr. Murphy. He is highly pleased with the good material that he has found here and talks some of organizing a team to take part in the Intercollegiate games at Berkely Oval, New York. One student has developed some phenominal qualities "in putting the shot" and is expected to excel the present Intercollegiate record.

Resolutions of Respect.

We the class of '93 of the Ann Arbor High School, desiring to express our grief at the loss of our schoolmate, Agnes Cropsey, and to extend our sympathy to the bereaved family and relatives, offer the following resolutions:

WHEREAS, We are called to mourn the death of our friend and classmate, Agnes Cropsey, therefore be it

Resolved, That in her untimely death we sustain the loss of one of our brightest and most exemplary members, who, by her kind and gentle bearing won the love and kindest regards both of teachers and classmates. In her death the parents lose a dutiful and loving daughter, and the sister and brothers a kind and gentle sister; her associates a true friend; and we as a class, a much loved and highly respected classmate.

Resolved, That we extend our heartfelt sympathy to the sorrowing family and relatives and while we mourn with them the fair and promising, cut off in life's bright morn, with them, too, we would bow to the sovereign will of Him who doeth all things well.

QUAINT WOONG.

Down the brink of a rippling brook
Grows an oak tree leafy and tall;
Whose limbs are a sheltered little nook
For an owlet downy and small.
When shadows steal from the star-lit skies,
And a coolness the air distills,
Within her dainty bower she flies
And lists to the song that thrills—
"To whit to who, to whit to who,"
While the dews are softly falling.
"I love but you, oh sweetest and true,"
Was her lover ever calling.

Soft as the whispering summer breeze
Poured his heart-song tenderly gay,
Caressing in every note the leaves
While the night mist guided its way;
"Oh owlet fluffy, my feathered love,
How rich are these sweets, my guest!
The cornfields yellow wherein I rove
"Sleek mice send they to my nest.
To whit to who, to whit to who,"
In the golden twilight whoing,
"My own one true, but I love you,"
Was there ever so quaint a wooing?

SNAP SHOTS.

The scene presented by the enthusiastic students at the close of the Cornell game was one which well nigh defies description. Even the professors who attended the game displayed a remarkable and commendable appreciation of the result. One of them was seen to embrace every member of the team on whom he could lay his hands. Two others whose specialty is dignity were so carried away with the enthusiasm of the occasion that they patted each other on the back in a true school-boy fashion.

One of the CHRONICLE-ARGONAUT scribes was so unfortunate last Saturday evening as to be unable to secure a seat at the Glee Club Concert in Detroit, consequently in lieu of a better attraction he wandered into Whitney’s Opera House where Tony Pastor’s variety troop was the order of the evening. Imagine his surprise at beholding a trio of the members of the faculty a short distance from him. Out of respect for the families of the faculty contingent, he has refused to disclose the names of the variety show delegation. Doubtless these members were gathering materiel in their special lines of work as each intently studied only what pertained to his department, and in the near future we may expect instruction in the “Phonetics of the German Comedian,” “The Ethics of the Song and Dance Artist,” and “The Parabolic Evolution of the Skirt Dance.”

 His leg does smack, and he makes air black,
 As from the umpire’s decision he appeals

The University team will play Northwestern University this afternoon at the fair grounds. The latter team contains some good players, and has defeated Wisconsin State University and Lake Forest this spring.

Yale and Harvard are at their old tricks again, disputing and wrangling over their inter-collegiate base ball games. Yale now claims that Harvard broke her agreement in regard to playing with Princeton, and she emphatically refuses to play ball this year with Harvard. Harvard has submitted conciliatory propositions to Yale and challenged her again, but none of them have been accepted.

He will probably enter Yale next year.—Exchange.

Thursday of this week practice in foot-ball began under the direction of Captain James Van Inwagen. Hereafter until Commencement there will be daily practice on the campus from four to six, and a serious course of elementary training will be pursued. It is of the utmost importance these plans be encouraged and that all who expect to be candidates for the eleven next fall, begin their work now. The practice will be resumed early in September again and applicants will be urged to come down early, before the opening next fall. Manager Van Deventer will make every exertion to secure a desirable series of games in the east—sufficient to warrent and eastern trip, and wants the encouragemint of a promising lot of candidates.

Why this flutter, why this flurry,
In the Senior maiden's heart?
Why these lines that tell of worry—
Why that sudden, nervous start?
Why these smiles, soft and alluring,
Showered on junior, prep. and soph?
Why this sudden good behavior
Toward each young unmarried prof?

This discussing at the table
Love and marriage and such themes—
Why these bright, coquettish glances?
Why these vision haunted dreams?

Do you seek to know the reason?

EXPECTED.

I have not heard until to-day
That bright young Jones is dead.
A brick fell off the roof, you say,
And struck him on the head.

The story which you tell,
For when I saw him last, last year
He wasn't looking well. Brunonian.

SONG.

(Margaret sits at her wheel.)

A lily grew by a river,
And softly unfolded its timorous leaves to the sun
That warmed and whitened and withered them
one by one.
The lily that grew by the river.
A heart lay bare to a lover,
Who held it up full to the face of the light and the morn.
And wooed it and won it and cast it away out-
worn;
The heart that lay bare to a lover.
As it has been, so it is ever—
The lily still turns to the warming, withering sun,
The heart still loves on till loving and life shall be done—
And so will it be forever.

—Harvard Advocate.

IF SHE BUT KNEW.

Reclining in a languid pose
 Behold my lady fair,
 Complexion like a new-blown rose,
 Her gown from Worth, most rare.
 A year from now in calico,
 She'll lead a different life;
 I shall be saving money, though,
 For then she'll be my wife.—Bostonian.

F. F. Thompson, of New York, will build for Williams three laboratories—chemical, physical and biological—to cost altogether about $100,000.

THE MARK OF THE ROSE.

I opened the book before me—
 Between its leaves there lay
 A rose, all withered and dried and dead,
 Whose fragrance had passed away.
 The rose was brown and dull,
 But I saw a faint, red stain,
 For the page was marked with the rose's blood
 On the spot where it long had lain.
 And now the book of my life
 Lies open before my eyes:
 There, too, I find a treasured rose,—
 And crowding fancies rise.
 And this rose may fade and die,
 And its perfumes vanish away,
 But its mark on the pages of my heart
 Shall last forever and aye.—Yale Lit.

LITERARY NOTES.

Outing is becoming each year of more interest to the college man, in so far as it gives less attention to the purely professional sporting and more to amateur and college athletics. The May number of this magazine is of especial interest to the college student, as it has several excellent articles on topics pertaining directly to Field Day sports.

The first of these articles is by Malcolm W. Ford on "Sprinters and their Methods." It is well written and full of pointers for the man in training and should be read by every man who intends to enter our Field Day contests. The article is illustrated by several cuts of noted amateur sprinters, the first being one of John Owen, Jr., of the D. A. C.

There is an interesting account of the past and present of athletics at Amherst. The athletic management of this university has kept well abreast of the times in all modern equipments. Amherst has two good gymnasiums and a very convenient athletic field. This article is finely illustrated with cuts of the foot ball, base ball, and athletic teams

The first chapters of a serial by John Seymour Wood, entitled "Harry's Career at Yale," are given in this number. The story will deal with the life of a typical "fellow" during his four years at Yale, and will be told in the usual but interesting style.

Among other articles that fill the May number are "Photographic Dark Rooms," by Ellerslie Wallace, "The Rowing Clubs of Canada," by Captain Blackwell, "Lawn Tennis in New England," by James Dwight, and "Canoe Building for Amateurs," by H. J. Van Alstine.

D. C. Heath & Co., Boston are just issuing "Comparative View of the Executive and Legislative Departments of the Government of the United States, France, England and Germany," by John Wenzel, Assistant Librarian of College of Liberal Arts, Boston University.

This consists of outlines of four great constitutional governments, arranged in parallel columns in such a way that similar topics are grouped together. By this arrangement comparison can readily be made. The latest standard works in both French and English have been consulted in compiling these outlines. Prof. Woodrow Wilson of Princeton, the author of "The State," has examined the manuscript, and made suggestions and corrections. This Comparative view is unlike in its arrangement anything hitherto published. It will be useful in fixing in mind the leading facts of these governments, which are brought out much more fully than in "The State," and other works on civil government.
